Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions, which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-9, 15 and 18-26, drawn to a cell infected with a recombinant avipoxvirus.

Group II, claim(s) 10, drawn to a use of recombinant avipoxvirus for the preparation of a medicament of a vaccine.

Group III, claim(s) 11, drawn to a method for introducing a nucleic acid sequence into a target cell by infection with recombinant avipoxvirus.

Group IV, claim(s) 12, drawn to a method for producing a peptide, protein and/or virus by infecting host cells with recombinant avipoxvirus.

Group V, claim(s) 13 and 14, drawn to a method of inducing an immunological response by administering a vaccine comprising a recombinant avipoxvirus to an animal or human.

Group VI, claim(s) 16,17, 27 and 28, drawn to a method for obtaining a recombinant avipoxvirus with an increased titer.

The invention of Group I lacks an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3) as being obvious over Fang et al., (Virology Vol. 291:2, 272-284, 2001). The claims state a cell infected with a recombinant avipoxvirus comprising host range genes of vaccinia virus. These host range genes enhance expression of viral antigens encoded by HIV expression cassette also present in the recombinant avipoxvirus. However, because (Fang et al.) is drawn to an avipoxvirus, which comprises vaccinia host range genes and HIV expression cassettes, that infects mammalian and avian cells it would be obvious to one in the art to incorporate the vaccinia host range genes into an avipoxvirus which is in a host cell.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.

No matter which group is elected, a further election of species is required.

These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

A. The species of Vaccinia virus genes are as follows:

(A) E3L,

(B) C7L, and

Art Unit: 1648

(C) K1L.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The following claim(s) are generic: all claims are generic because no claim is limited to defined recombinant avipoxvirus.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the prior art teaches the recombinant avipoxvirus comprising Vaccinia host range genes and expression cassettes.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
